Instructions for Membership Application

Prospective members should hold positions which are substantially involved in public relations or which have responsibility for activities primarily of a public relations nature. The activities of a public relations nature can be adjunct to other functions. Self-employed practitioners will be considered for membership if they provide information on their public relations activities in the Raleigh area.

A check made payable to the Raleigh Public Relations Society should accompany the membership application. Membership applications are acted upon by the society's board of directors. In the event membership is not granted, an applicant's check will be returned with all due haste.

Fees for all new members include an initiation fee of $25 and prorated annual dues for the remainder of the calendar year. Members pay for meals at the meetings they attend. If a member RSVPs and does not attend, the member may be invoiced for the cost of lunch.

Student memberships are available for $35 and not pro-rated throughout the year. There is no initiation fee for student memberships.

Corporate memberships are not pro-rated throughout the year.
